

The Rise and Fall of Memphis' Maverick Landmarks

Memphis, Tennessee, is a city with a rich and storied history. It is home to a number of iconic landmarks that have become synonymous with the city. These landmarks include Graceland, Sun Studio, Stax Records, Beale Street, the Peabody Hotel, Bass Pro Shops at the Pyramid, and many others.

Clarence Saunders & the Founding of Piggly Wiggly: The Rise & Fall of a Memphis Maverick (Landmarks)

by Mike Freeman

★★★★☆ 4.7 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 8565 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 163 pages
Lending : Enabled

However, not all of Memphis' landmarks have stood the test of time. Some have been demolished, while others have fallen into disrepair. In this article, we will take a look at some of Memphis' most famous landmarks that have either been lost or are no longer as popular as they once were.

Lost Landmarks

Buckman Hall

Buckman Hall was a historic building located in downtown Memphis. It was built in 1859 and was once one of the city's most prominent landmarks. The building was home to a number of businesses over the years, including a hotel, a bank, and a department store. However, Buckman Hall fell into disrepair in the 1970s and was eventually demolished in 1981.

Orpheum Theatre

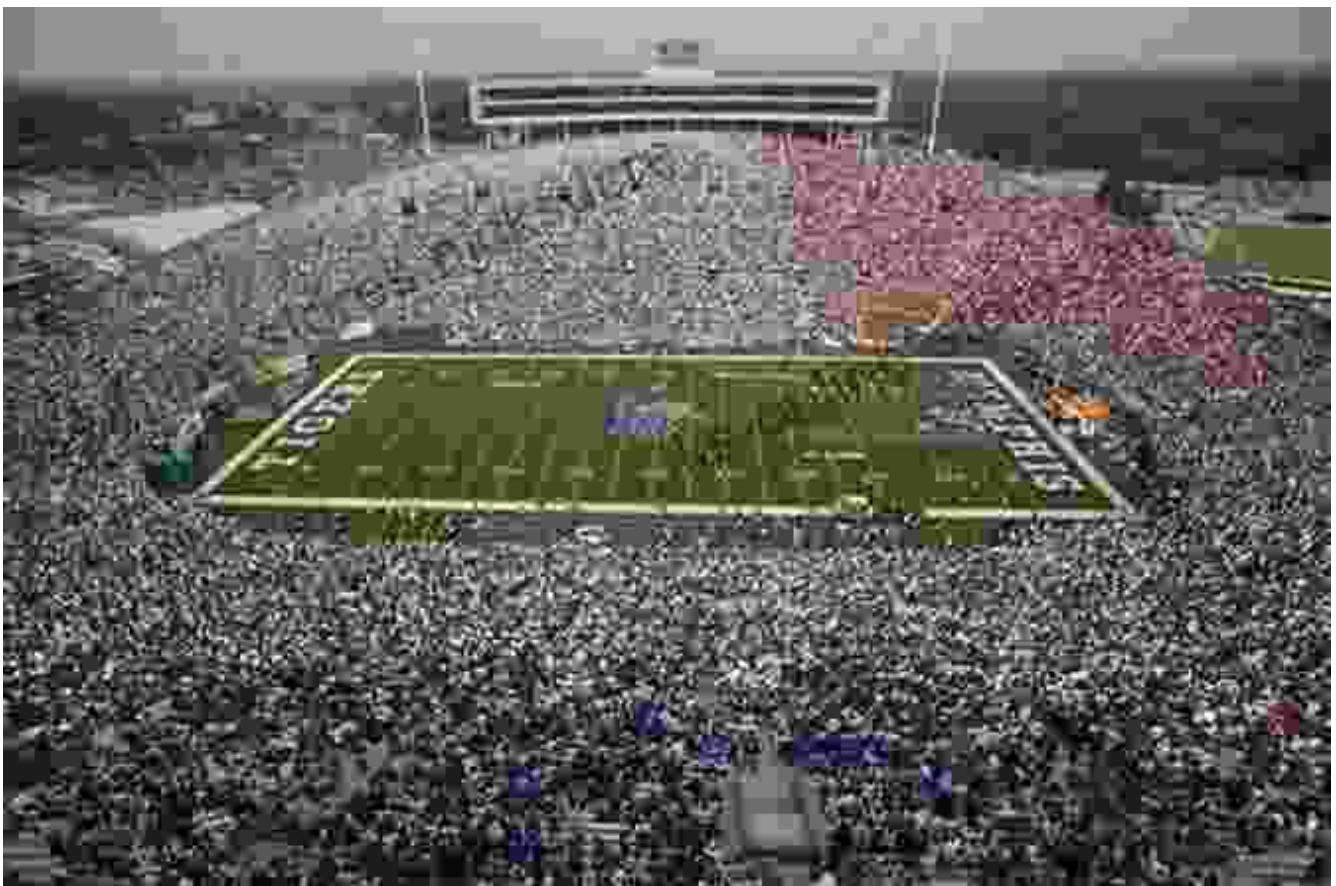

The Orpheum Theatre was a grand vaudeville and movie palace located in downtown Memphis. It was built in 1928 and was one of the most popular entertainment venues in the city. The Orpheum Theatre hosted a number of famous performers over the years, including Elvis Presley, B.B. King, and Ray Charles. However, the theatre fell into disrepair in the 1970s and was eventually closed in 1982. The Orpheum Theatre was later restored and reopened in 1991 and is now a popular venue for concerts and other events.

The Orpheum Theatre was a grand vaudeville and movie palace located in downtown Memphis. It was built in 1928 and was one of the most popular entertainment venues in the city. The Orpheum Theatre hosted a number of famous performers over the years, including Elvis Presley, B.B. King, and Ray Charles. However, the theatre fell into disrepair in the 1970s and was eventually closed in 1982. The Orpheum Theatre was later restored and reopened in 1991 and is now a popular venue for concerts and other events.

Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium

Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium was a football stadium located in Memphis. It was built in 1965 and was home to the Memphis Tigers football team. The stadium also hosted a number of other events over the years, including the Liberty Bowl and the AutoZone Liberty Bowl Classic. However, the stadium fell into disrepair in the 1990s and was eventually demolished in 2005. The site of the stadium is now home to a park and a soccer stadium.

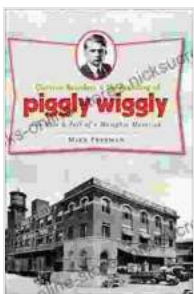

Fading Landmarks

Dixon Gallery and Gardens

The Dixon Gallery and Gardens is a museum and botanical garden located in Memphis. It was founded in 1957 and is home to a collection of art and gardens. The Dixon Gallery and Gardens is a popular tourist destination and is also a popular wedding venue. However, the museum has faced financial difficulties in recent years and has been forced to make cuts to its staff and programs.

Clarence Saunders & the Founding of Piggly Wiggly: The Rise & Fall of a Memphis Maverick (Landmarks)

by Mike Freeman

★★★★☆ 4.7 out of 5

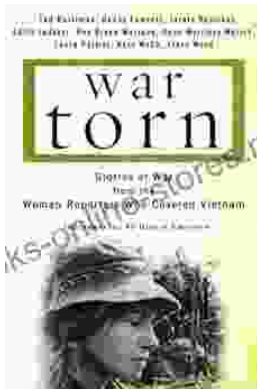

Language : English
File size : 8565 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 163 pages

Lending

: Enabled

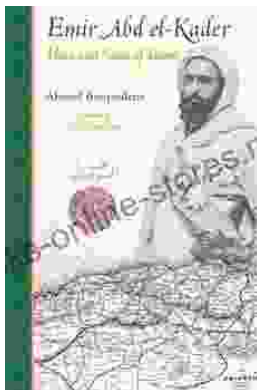

FREE

DOWNLOAD E-BOOK

Stories of War from the Women Reporters Who Covered Vietnam

The Vietnam War was one of the most significant events of the 20th century. It was a complex and controversial conflict that had a profound impact on both the United States...

The Hero and Saint of Islam: A Perennial Philosophy

Ali ibn Abi Talib, the fourth caliph of Islam, is a figure of great significance in the Muslim world. He is revered as a hero and a saint, and his...